

Disclaimer

This is my personal blog so the opinions expressed in it do not necessarily represent those of my church, employer, or frankly, of anyone else but me! My goal is to curate content I find to support my theory that men need better friendships. I hope you agree but, if not, you are welcome to voice your opinion but I moderate the comments and may not approve those I do not feel are supportive or are offensive.

The information I provide is “as is” and I make no representations about its accuracy, currentness, suitability, or validity so I will not be liable for any errors, omissions, or losses, injuries, or damages from its use.

Basically, you are on your own about how you use this information, buddy!